Colonel Goethals Directs Explosions
as Flash from Washington is Heard

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Prompts at 2 o'clock this afternoon, President Wilson, seated in his office in the White House, pressed a button and watched through 1500 miles to Colonels Goethals at Gatun, Panama, who likewise pressed a button causing thousands of tons of earth to be dislodged in the Gambou dike, allowing the water stored in Gatun Lake to flow into Chibarra cut.

PANAMA, October 10.—The long task of building the great canal which is to unite the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans was practically completed at 2 o'clock this afternoon when Colonel Goethals, president of the Panama Canal Company, pressed the signal from President Wilson to discharge 1,247 charges of dynamite which will destroy Gambou dike, separating Gatun Lake and Chibarra cut. Through this is regarded as the final step in the canal construction, it does not actually unite the two seas as the great Chibarra dike will block the way. It will take about two weeks to remove this. The oceans, however, have been in a sense connected for some weeks by 24-inch pipes which were set in place because of expected water pressure in the cut.

When the waters of the Atlantic and those of the Pacific were welded together and the breaking in two of the backbone of two continents finally completed, the United States had achieved what for two centuries had been dreamed of, attempted and abandoned as too gigantic a feat for human effort, America's triumph in the building of the canal will be written down in history as one of the greatest achievements of mankind. It will stand up as a Sphinx and the Pyramids of the modern era, and just as the ancient Egyptians overcame what would seem to have been well-nigh insurmountable obstacles in their task, the United States has overcome what accomplished in less than seven years what four other nations of the world tried and desisted of from the early part of the sixteenth century.

It has thrown across the isthmus an army of men, and these men have plowed the distance of 50 miles through mountains of rock. It has opened its purse and poured into the undertaking a flood of nearly $400,000,000 dollars.

It will be possible to go through the Canal, from ocean to ocean, in eleven hours. It took the battleship Oregon six weeks to pass around the Horn during the Spanish-American War. From deep-water in the Caribbean Sea on the east to deep-water in the Pacific Ocean on the west, the Canal measures a length of 50 miles. Vessels will reach its summit elevation by a flight of three locks located at Gatun, on the Atlantic side, and by one lock at Pedro Miguel and a flight of two at Panama, on the Pacific side. These steps in the great waterway vary in height from 17 to 32 feet, and those at Gatun, the largest ever designed, can be mounted by the greatest vessels in less than half an hour each.

Locks at every point have been built to duplicate the best in use to complicate traffic. The Canal has been designed to take care of 50,000,000 tons of traffic a year, or four times the amount of commerce now passing through Suez Canal and twice the amount now passing through the American "Soo" Canal.

Each Span began the construction of the canal nearly seven years ago. Back of that time runs a period of four centuries, during which time men were talking of a Panama canal, a number of brilliant dreams, and darkened by the lost fortunes of those who sought to make these dreams materialize.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 10.—With the blowing of whistles of all local factories and engines Panama Day was celebrated at noon by the Pittsburgh Commercial Club.

At a luncheon the following toasts were responded to: "Pittsburgh Steel and the Panama Canal," Colonel James E. Porter; "Pittsburgh Coal and the Panama Canal," John W. Biddle; "The Ohio River and the Panama Canal," Captain J. Frank Miller; "The Pittsburgh Pirates and the Panama Canal," C. C. Terry; "Here's to the Panama Canal, to those who conceived it, to those who completed it, and to those who will celebrate in San Francisco in 1915," was the toast offered in unison.

YOM KIPPUR TOMORROWJews Will Celebrate the Most Solemn of Fest Days.

The Day of Atonement, the holiest day in the Jewish calendar comes tomorrow. Its biblical designation is Yom Kippur, later shortened to Yom Kippur. The services of the Day of Atonement, beginning with the Shema service on the eve of Atonement, is continuous throughout the day. The Day of Atonement is not dependent on the sacrificial service prescribed in the Bible. Thus after the destruction of the Temple in the year 70, when sacrifices were abolished, the Day of Atonement was able to survive, and of all the holidays of the Jewish calendar it has held its own in the hearts of the Jewish people.

The Jewish stores here will be closed tomorrow, opening at 5 o'clock in the evening and services commencing with the evening will be held in the Jewish synagogue on North Pittsburgh street.

The child bore the following note printed on an old cloth sewed on the front of her dress:

Two cash registers in the barroom of the Wyman Hotel on South Pittsburgh street were rifled of $10 each some time between the closing hour last night and this morning, presumably by one man who is believed to have secreted himself in a closet and helped himself to the money after the place had been closed for the night.

The bar clerk had left $10 in each register for change in the morning and the men who committed the burglary evidently knew of this, as suspected as much. All of the doors and windows were locked securely but no examination of the closet, which is large enough for half a dozen men to conceal themselves, was made.

This morning Mr. Thornell, the bar clerk, discovered that the money was missing and upon examination found the bolt on one of the front doors unfastened. Proprietor J. J. McFarland inclines to the men in the closet explanation of the burglary.

WILL HAVE NO LAWSCity to Face Strange Situation When New Officers Take In.

When Connelville changes from a borough to a city on December 2, there will be a period in which there will be practically no laws at all. With the entering in of the mayor and the four councilmen upon whom devolves administration of the city's affairs under the new commission form of government, the borough ordinances will be inoperative and there will be no city ordinances.

The new council will organize at once and probably choose the best of the borough ordinances and re-enact them, but until these are passed, advertised and the other legal requirements gone through with, they will not be effective.

This is a unique condition, but legal authorities declare that this will be the status for several weeks. Attorneys claim, however, that if any question should come up requiring legal action, a court's ruling would be that the borough ordinances are operative until the city government is properly organized.

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 10.—The suit of the McCormick-Hoover Company against the West End Produce Company of Uniontown was taken up before Judge Greel this morning. BLAMES COAL FOR CANCERScientist Declares Gas Should be Used as Fuel-Substitute.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The conclusion reached by Charles E. Green of Edinburgh that there is a distinct relationship between the occurrence of cancer and the kind of fuel used for domestic purposes was accepted as decisive by Sir William Osler, the eminent surgeon in his presidential address at the meeting of the Coal Smoke Abatement Society.

He said that the incidence of cancer was limited to those areas where coal was the staple fuel while it was almost non-existent where ordinary peat alone was used. The only exception yet discovered to this rule, he declared, was in districts where the peat was a hard, black substance, which crumbled like coal and was quite unlike the smoldering, ordinary peat.

Sir William Bennett, in conclusion, spoke strongly in favor of gas as a substitute for coal.

HORNER OPENING HELD

Crowds Visit New Store and View Style Display.
The formal opening of the new store of The Horner Company last evening in the new Woolworth building attracted large crowds throughout the evening. While the store is exclusively for men and boys, many women were attracted by the opening and took as great an interest in the new store and the display of wearing apparel as the men and boys. After inspecting the new store it was pronounced the largest and most up-to-date store of its kind in Western Pennsylvania by all who attended. It has a large floor space than any store of the kind in any one county. The floor space is much larger than that of the old quarters of the company in the Title & Trust building.

Attractive features are the two large display windows which with the many reflecting lights and the new display of men's and boys' wearing apparel present a very attractive appearance. Over the window is a pretty leaded glass effect which the interior is finished in mahogany panels. The base of the window is a large vaulted arch of tile. The lights are so arranged as to distribute the light equally in all parts of the windows. To the right of the store, extending nearly to the rear is the men's haberdashery department. To the right in the rear is the men's clothing neatly displayed in oak cabinets with crystal doors. Between the two large cabinets is a small tray on which hang wet hosiery in a neat and attractive display. To the left is the collar section and back of this is the boys' department and hat section, and in the rear is the office. Nearly all of the rear of the store on the left is devoted to the new shoe department. Back of this is the office of the manager, E. W. Horner. Directly in the rear of Mr. Horner's office is the cutting department of the tailoring establishment in charge of Robert Johnson of New York, the designer. Taking up most of the center of the store were racks and tables for the display of goods. Profusion of tables and racks and large bunches of fall fashions were artistically arranged in all parts of the store.

After inspecting the first floor, the tailoring department on the second floor was inspected. The room is large and airy and light. There is a large basement for the storage of goods. This line of men's and boys' wearing apparel was the largest ever shown in Connellsville. Mr. Horner, the manager, has resided in Connellsville nearly all his life and is one of the town's most progressive and enterprising merchants. Yesterday afternoon music was furnished by a Victrola and last evening by a Victrola and last evening by a Victrola.

Why is the soda cracker today such a universal food?

People ate soda crackers in the old days, it is true—but they bought them from a barrel or box and took them home in a paper bag, their crispness and flavor all gone.

Unecda Biscuit—soda crackers better than any ever made before—made in the greatest bakeries in the world—baked to perfection—packed to perfection—kept to perfection until you take them, oven-fresh and crisp, from their protecting package. Five cents.

COAL PRICES ADVANCE

Pittsburgh District Enjoying an Era of Great Prosperity.
Sharp advances on bituminous coal prices were made in the Pittsburgh district as of October 1, these ranging from 10 to 20 cents. To a certain extent they were normal, as leading shippers had been receiving 10 and 15 cents a ton above prevailing prices for spot shipment. The price advance prevailing here: Black, $1.10; nut, $1.10; mine run, $1.10; 4-inch, $1.10.

Shipments continue to be cut down by the cur shortage. The iron and steel mills consumed more coal in September than in August and shipments to these plants were heavier than the first nine months in the year than for the same period of 1912.

All the bituminous markets report firm prices, with coal in great demand. At some points fancy prices are being paid for prompt shipments. In the Pittsburgh district, with no other untoward condition save a cur shortage, prices were more stable, nor the demand more steady.

FIVE MINUTE CURE

IF STOMACH IS BAD.

When "Pape's Diapensin" Reaches Stomach All Indigestion, Gas and Sourness Disappears.

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is the valuable organ you must not injure it with drastic drugs. Pape's Diapensin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmless nature; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should not something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, forms gas and causes headache, dizziness and nervous eruptions of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapensin comes in contact with the stomach all distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.—Adv.

BACKACHE A WARNING YOU SHOULD HEED

It is One of Nature's First Signs of Kidney Trouble. If Neglected, Serious Diseases May Follow.

When the kidneys are clogged up and inactive, nature has a way of warning you.

Backache is one of the first symptoms. You may also be troubled with disagreeable, annoying bladder disorders; have attacks of lumbago or rheumatism; become nervous, tired and feel all worn out; puff swellings show under the eyes or in the feet and ankles; and many other symptoms are noticed. If they are neglected, dropsy, diabetes, or Bright's Disease, which so often prove fatal, may result.

It is not only dangerous, but needless for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles, when a little Croxone now will quickly and surely end all such misery.

There is no more effective remedy known for all such troubles than Croxone, because it reaches the cause. It works right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the clogged up pores; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and waste matter that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter and sift the poison out of the blood and drive it from the system.

You will find Croxone different from all other remedies. It is practically impossible to take it without results.

An original package costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case. Three doses a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to end the worst backache, relieve rheumatic pains, or overcome urinary disorders.—Adv.

Then Ludlum Is Ready to Go to Jail.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Several times yesterday a well-dressed man walked past the sheriff's office in the Barclay building on Broadway. Deputy Sheriff Gilmore and Metzger watched him for a long time and then asked him: "Looking for anything?"

"Yes," replied the man, as he shifted his grip from one shoulder to the other. "The Sheriff's Hotel." Then he added with a grin: "I'm Henry A. Ludlum."

"We have an order for your arrest," said Metzger.

"All very true," admitted Ludlum. "You've got me. Wednesday evening the 1st I walked by the Sheriff's Hotel in Philadelphia. He won his game; now I am satisfied to go to jail."

Ludlum is a wealthy retired merchant. He is $7,750 in arrears in alimony, due to his first wife.

POLITICAL AND BUSINESS.

The business before this year, like the weather, have acted in a very freakish manner. For example, the Presidential election should have developed some hesitation and depression in trade circles. There was nothing of this sort. Business continued good even after the election of a Democratic President backed by a Democratic Congress, and it has remained so during all the present agitation concerning the tariff bill and the currency question.

It was perhaps these facts which led many business men to think that the last financial confidence had outgrown the bugaboo of politics and the prosperity begun under Republican policies would continue under any other conditions. It begins to look, however, as if the business that was able to survive the agitation of the tariff question will not be able to entirely escape the logical effects of the practical application of the Democratic policy of absolute withdrawal of the principle of protection.

The question is coming home to the people of the Conneltsville region. Steel orders are diminishing, pig iron is weakening and coke is soft in spots. This is one of the results predicted in these columns a year ago if the Democratic party should be placed in power again and its tariff policies should be enforced against American manufacturers. These prophecies were at the time we retorted to say regarded by many as political bunk, when as a matter of fact they were sincere and earnest warnings. In spite of the optimism that whittles in the dark, it is beginning to be understood that Democratic experiments are going to make rather trying conditions.

But they will have to be faced with courage. The battle danger must be plucked firmly. The American people may be depended upon to right their mistake at the first opportunity, and in the meantime its effects may be minimized by a determination to make the most of the situation.

In the meantime, it is encouraging to note that at present prices there is no inducement to import British pig iron. There is consequently no present necessity on the part of the American furnacemen to further reduce prices because of free pig. Steel should meet its own conditions, especially in view of the fact that it has fared so much better than either pig or coke. The greatest danger perhaps lies in possible reduced demand because of foreign competition, but this possibility seems to be approached by the American steelmasters with confidence.

To sum up, then, it may be said that while the steel, iron and coke business of this country undoubtedly faces trying conditions, it lies within the power of the manufacturers to greatly minimize if not practically overcome these conditions by courage, confidence and conference, when the latter is not "in restraint of trade."

The trolley car is the poor man's auto and it serves the purpose well in the Conneltsville coke region.

The Somerset Herald, commenting on the vote cast for John W. Kephart, the Cambria county candidate for Superior Court Judge, says the reason Kephart ran away with the race is that he not only advertised liberally, but that back of his practical campaign of education he had the goods, that is to say the man. He also had a brother in Fayette county.

The sale of poisons, though regulated by law, is rather promiscuous still.

Bully changed his mind at the last moment and declined to tell everything Henry Clay was never like that.

A Philadelphia man dropped dead from heart failure and a New Yorker committed suicide as a result of yesterday's baseball game. The games will go on, however.

Billy Sunday will come in Pittsburgh if his tent is pitched on the old cathedral site and he is given everything he wants. Bill's demands are rather auvercotic, but highland vaudeville is inclined to be that way, even when the salary demands are met.

Scottdale will hold a Day of Jubilee and try to make regular customers of the pilgrims who come. While the Scottdale idea is perhaps not entirely original it is a very clever adaptation.

Connellsville is just now hanging its banners on the outer walls.

The rich natural resources of West Virginia are being carefully mapped and described by its Geological Survey. This sort of state advertising always pays.

New local passenger trains are under consideration by the Western Maryland and the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroads. The railroad managers probably know their business better than we do, but one thing seems reasonably sure, namely, that if these railroads want their share of the Conneltsville passenger traffic they will have to go after it. Miss Opportunity is here, but she is not chasing anybody.

The baseball special from Pittsburgh to New York shows that the N. & O. can run when required to do so without necessarily running off the track, and further that it is disposed at all times to take care of its patrons.

The Fayette City man who pulled a piece of wire out of his throat doesn't remember how he "got it in the neck," but he knows he has it out.

The Democratic Tariff net has struck a snag already.

The example of the United States Steel Corporation in taking its workmen into partnership seems to be contagious.

The horse is automatically gentle, but his feet are always heavy.

The country is in the grasp of famitis.

Opposition to the Conneltsville Columbus Day celebration has only served to make it bigger and better than ever.

Italian capital, which has hitherto confined itself chiefly to peanuts and bananas, is seeking investments in the coke business.

Internal Revenue Collector Lawell will not enter upon the duties of his office until November 1. This will give him time to collect his collectors.

Cleveland sawed stone was once de luxe sidewalk material; but, like some de luxe individuals, it doesn't wear; it's too soft.

Some of the "outside coke" which seems to be temporarily competing with the product of the Conneltsville region is suspected of coming from quarters close at hand. The closer it gets to the Conneltsville region the better it is.

It is denied that there have been some reductions in steel prices, but there is no guarantee that there will be none.

Vanderbilt reports a game show not down on the bill.

Owensboro is getting careless. After forty years it had a fire. It will have insurance agents next.

The Young Men's Christian Association campaign will have politics beaten to a frazzle next week.

The bite of the railroad frog is so deadly that safety first should seek earnestly for an antidote.

The Baltimore & Ohio railroad management is violating a proper and necessary use of the "short and" (a) in the decoration of its rolling stock.

The Conneltsville Style Show has been a swell affair.

St. Petersburg.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Slawash."

St. Petersburg, the capital of Russia, was built to order for Peter the Great, and forms the largest single job ever done for one man.

Peter the Great desired a new capital where the facilities for skating and bathing as well as warship building were greater, and for that reason he laid out St. Petersburg in 1702.

It is situated a short distance under the eaves of the Arctic circle on the swampy shores of the river Neva, which wanders through the streets with impunity during the spring.

St. Petersburg has a million and a half people, a vast number of whom are entirely satisfied with the government being on the Imperial payroll. It is built on both sides of the Neva, which is walled in with granite, but climbs the walls in flood time like a small boy going after apples.

Like smaller towns which are divided into two hostile parts, St. Petersburg has most of its public institutions on the islands in the river thus obviating jealousy between the north and south sides.

St. Petersburg has scores of great palaces, forts and armaments and is decorated with vast numbers of churches with turnip shaped spires. It has wide streets filled with motorless carriages, soldiers and whisks.

St. Petersburg is the world's greatest whisker emporium, and the barber's union of the city holds its meetings around a small table.

St. Petersburg is one of the few cities in the world which has not been shot at. Situated so far north that the firemen put out conflagrations by bombarding them with ice cakes, and an unfrozen water pipe is a novelty, hostile armies have always become discouraged before reaching it. However, the city does not lack for excitement. Lodge No. 1 of the United Order of Amherstians makes its headquarters in the city and conducts a general bomb making business.

ness in a manner which has doubled accident insurance rates all over the city in the last thirty years.

St. Petersburg is the residence of the Czar and the seat of the Russian Duma, the national legislative body which does everything but make laws. It is also badly infested with Grand Dukes. It has excellent train service to Siberia, but can only be reached from America by a long, hard journey and is not visited with tourists. It is one of the most hospitable cities in the world, however. Every arrival is met by a reception committee, consisting of a member of the police force.

St. Petersburg has no skyscrapers except churches, and gets along with very few street cars and automobiles. It is proud of its great street, the Nevski Prospekt, which is four miles long and so wide that the pedestrian can travel for blocks without getting cornered by the regular army.

The barber's Union of the city holds its meetings around a small table.

RHEUMATISM AND
BRIGHT'S DISEASEProf. Budlong Was Quickly Relieved of Both Afflictions by Using RHEUM.

If you suffer from any form of Rheumatism, remember that RHEUM BA goes to work quickly to remove the cause, not simply to relieve the symptoms. Many years ago he demonstrated that it goes to the seat of the disease and expels the poisonous matter through the natural channels—the kidneys, bowels, liver and skin.

"For many years I was troubled with rheumatism, also with Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. I suffered awfully.
Tried many advertised remedies after using your truly remarkable preparation, RHEUMBA, I was fully cured."—Prof. C. J. Budlong, Sound View, Conn.

BOYS TAKEN FROM SCHOOL TO REPAIR SERENADE DAMAGE

In Attempt to Torture New-lyweds They Attack an Empty House.

FOLLOWING THE FOOL FASHIONS

Dr. N. L. Kerr Says Dr. M. A. Noon's Medical Practice at Evanson; Scottsdale Superior Organize for Year; High School Gains Tomorrow.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, Oct. 10.—Five boys were taken out of school yesterday by Chief of Police Frank McDougall and compelled to undo mischief that they had performed the night before. In the act of "serenading" Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Fleming, newlyweds of a week ago. As it was the boys had serenade an empty house, the doctor and his wife not being in the house at all when the boys came around with their beating of tin pans, wash boilers and other noise makers so popular in Christian and civilized communities, as evidence of the popular esteem of wedlock. The disturbance took place at the new house which Homer L. Deffenbaugh has built on South Chestnut street within the shadow of the high school and Scottsdale Free Public Library. When the tumult had died down and no bride or bridegroom appeared, the boys piled all their rubbish on the porch of the new house and also broke a window. Having thus performed the courtesies of society the boys departed. Doctor Fleming went to the house on Thursday and found it in horrible shape. The boys' particular effort to conceal the identity of the boys taking part in the disorder, as they are used to older people indulging in the same kind of disorder, and who the serenade was soon found out. The conditions were such that the chief of police was consulted and he marched the boys out of school and made them scrub and clean up all the damage. Their parents will be assessed for the broken window.

"I am glad this happened," said the father of one of the boys. "I don't want my son to be a fool. He was thoughtless and really has the example of grown up idiots in tormenting people who marry, and this will bring to the boys notice not to indulge in serenades."

Profess to wonder why marriage is held so lightly these days. One of the reasons is that the very people, some of them at least who voice this query, are of the tribe that think it nice, innocent, smart to humiliate newly married folks with all the clown actions they can think of. I have a notion to tan my boy, too for I don't know whether he has learned his lesson or not."

Then the man asked about what a window glass costs when put in the ash.

DR. KERR AT EVANSON.

Dr. Norwin has taken over the medical practice of Dr. M. A. Noon at Evanson. Dr. Noon having sold his practice at that place. KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young—is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes—no sparkle in your eyes. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective, bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by taking up the liver and clearing the system of impurities. You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10 and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio.—Adv.

FRIDAY—And Then Jinks Had to Give Up His Feast:

By C. A. Voight.

She sat up and pulled her hat straight, looking me right in the eye. "If you'll recall," she said, "I came into the springhouse, and Arabella pulled that garment of Miss Cobb's off a table. It was early—nobody was out yet. You were alone, Minnie, or no," she said suddenly, "you were not alone. Minnie, who was in the pantry?"

"What has that to do with it?" I managed, with my feet as cold as steel. "She got up and buttoned her sweater."

"Don't trouble to lie," she said. "I can see through a stone wall as well as most people. Whoever got those letters thought they were stealing mine, and there are only two people who would try to steal my letters; one is Dick Carter, and the other is his brother-in-law. It wasn't Sam in the pantry—he came in just after with his little snub of a wife."

"Well?" I managed. "But she was smiling again, not so pleasantly."

"What a fool I've been, Minnie, and how clever you are under that red tangle of yours! Dicky cannot appear as long as I am here, and Pierce takes his place, and I help to keep the secret and to play the game! Well, I can appreciate a joke on myself as well as most people, but—Minnie, think of that guilty wretch of a Dicky Carter shaking in the pantry!"

"I don't know what you are talking about," I said, but she only winked and went to the door.

"Don't take it too much to heart," she advised. "Too much loyalty is a vice, not a virtue. And another piece of advice, Minnie—when I find Dicky Carter, stand firm; something will fall."

"They had charades during the rest hour that afternoon, the overweight headed by the bishop, against the underweights headed by Mr. Moody. They selected their words from one of Horace Fletcher's books, and as Mr. Pierce wasn't either over or underweight they asked him to be referee."

"Oh, they were crazy about him by that time. It was 'Mr. Carter' here and 'dear Mr. Carter' there, with the women rattling him needles and the men coming up to be bullied and asking for more. And he kept the upper hand, too, once he got it."

"But if Mr. Pierce was making a hit with the guests, he wasn't so popular with the Van Alstyne or the Carters. The night the cigar stand was closed Mr. Sam came to me and leaned over the counter."

"Put the key in a drawer," he said. "I can slip down here after the lights are out and get a smoke."

"Can't do it, Mr. Van Alstyne," I said. "Got positive orders."

"That doesn't include me," he was still perfectly goodhumored. "Sorry," I said. "Have to have a written order from Mr. Pierce."

He put a silver dollar on the desk between us and looked at me over it. "Will that open the case?" he asked. But I shook my head.

"Well, I'll be hanged! What the devil sort of order did he give you?"

"He said," I repeated, "that I'd be wanted and probably bribed to open the cigar case, and that you'd probably be the first one to do it, but I was to stick firm; you've been smoking too much, and your nerves are going."

"Timeless young puppy!" he exclaimed angrily, and stamped away. So that I was not surprised when on that night, Friday, I was told to be at the shelter-house at ten o'clock for a protest meeting. Mrs. Sam told me.

"Something has to be done," she said. "I don't intend to stand much more. Nobody has the right to say when I shall eat or what. If I want to eat fried shoe leather, that's my affair."

We met at ten o'clock at the shelter-house, everybody having gone to bed. Miss Patty, the Van Alstyne and myself. The Dicks were on good terms again, for a wonder, and when we went in they were in front of the fire, she on a box and he at her feet, with his head buried in her lap. He didn't even look up when we entered.

"They're here, Dicky," she said. "All right!" he answered in a smothered voice. "How many of 'em?"

"Four," she said, and kissed the tip of his ear.

"For goodness sake, Dicky!" Mrs. Sam snapped in a disgusted tone, "stop that spooning and get us something to sit on."

"Help yourself," he replied, still from his wife's lap, and don't be jealous, sis. If the sight of married happiness upsets you, go away. Go away, anyhow."

Mr. Sam came over and jerked him into a sitting position. "Either you'll sit up and take part in this discussion," he said angrily, "or you'll go out in the snow until it's over."

Mr. Dick leaned over and kissed his wife's hand.

"A cruel fate is separating us," he explained, "but try to endure it until I return. I'll be on the other side of the fireplace."

Miss Patty came to the fire and stood warming her hands. I saw her sister watching her.

"What's wrong with you, Pat?" she asked. "Oskar not behaving?"

"I'm tired to death, but I don't sleep," Miss Patty said. "I—I don't know why."

"I do," her sister said. "If you weren't so haughty, Pat, and would just own up that you're sick of your bargain."

"You generally do," Mr. Dick retorted. "If you want the truth, Pierce, I'm about tired of your high-handed methods."

Mr. Pierce set his jaw and looked down at him.

"Why? I've saved the place, haven't I? Why look here," he said, and pulled out a couple of letters, "these are the first fruits of those that weep—in other words, per aspera ad astra! Two new guests coming the last of the week—want to be put in training!"

Well, that was an argument nobody could find fault with, but their grievance was about themselves and they couldn't forgive him. They turned on him in the most heartless way—even Miss Patty—and demanded that he give them special privileges—breakfast when they wanted it, and Mr. Sam the key to the bar. And he stood firm, as he had that day in the lobby, and let the storm beat around him, looking mostly at Miss Patty. It was more than I could bear.

"Shame on all of you!" I said. "He's done what he promised he'd do, and more. If he did what he ought, he'd leave this minute, and let you find out for yourself what it is to drive thirty odd different stomachs and the same number of bad dispositions in one direction."

"You are perfectly right, Minnie," Miss Patty said. "We're beastly, all of us, and I'm sorry. She went over and laid out her hand to him. 'You've done the impossible,' she told him. He beamed."

"Your approval means more than anything," he said, holding her hand. Mrs. Dick sat up and opened her eyes wide.

"Speaking of Oskar," she began, and then stopped, staring past her sister, toward the door.

We all turned, and there, blinking in the light, was Miss Summers.

CHAPTER XIII.

"Well!" she said, and stood staring. Then she smiled—I guess our faces were funny.

"May I come in?" she asked, and without waiting she came in and closed the door. "You do look cozy!" she said, and shook herself free of snow.

Mr. Dick had turned white. He got up with his eyes on her, and twice he opened his mouth and couldn't speak. He backed, still watching her, to his wife, and stood in front of her, as if to protect her.

Mr. Sam got his voice first. "B—bad night for a walk," he said. "Frightful!" she said. "I've been buried to my knees. May I sit down?" To those of us who knew her easy manner and something horrible in it.

"Sorry there are no chairs, Julia," Mr. Pierce said. "Sit on the cot, won't you?"

"Who is it?" Mrs. Dick asked from, as you may say, her eclipse. She and Miss Summers were the only calm ones in the room.

"I—I don't know," Mr. Dick stammered, but the next moment Miss Julia, from the cot, looked across at him and grinned.

"Well, Dicky!" she said. "Who'd have thought it?"

"You said you didn't know her!" his wife said from behind him.

"Who'd have thought who—what?" he asked with bravado.

"All this!" Miss Julia waved her hand around the room, with its bare walls, and blankets over the windows to keep the light in and the cold out, and the circle of us sitting around on sand boxes from the links and lawn rollers. "To find you here, all snug in your own home, with your household gods and a wife! Nobody could think of anything to say. 'That is,' she went on, 'I believe there is a wife. Good heavens, Dicky, it isn't Minnie!'"

He stepped aside at that, disclosing Mrs. Dick on her box, with her childish eyes wide open.

"There—there is a wife, Julia," he said. "This is her—she."

"Mumps!" Mrs. Dick said. "Why, he has just had them himself!" She looked around the circle suspiciously, and every one of us looked as guilty as if he had been caught with the mumps concealed around him somewhere.

"I didn't have real mumps," Mr. Dick explained. "It was only—or a swelling."

"You said it was mumps, and even now you hate pickles!"

Mr. Pierce had edged over to Miss Summers and patted her shoulder. "Do a good sport, Julia," he whispered.

She threw off his hand. "I'm being an idiot!" she said angrily. "Dick's an ass, and he's treated me like a villain, but look at that baby! It will be twenty years before she has to worry about her weight."

"I think we'd better be going," Miss Patty got up and gathered up her cloak. But if she meant to break up the party Miss Summers was not ready.

"If you don't mind," she said, "I'll stay. I'm frozen, and I've got to go home and sleep with my window up. You're lucky," she went on to the Dicks. "I dare say the air in here would scare us under a microscope, but at least it is warm."

The Van Alstyne made a move to go, but Mr. Dicky frantically gestured to them not to leave him alone, and Mrs. Sam sat down again sulkily. Mr. Pierce picked up his cap.

"I'll take you back," he said to Miss Patty, and his face was fairly glowing. But Miss Patty slipped her arm through mine.

"Come, Minnie, Mr. Pierce is going to take us," she said.

"I'd—I'd rather go alone," I said. "Nonsense."

"I'm not ready. I've got to gather up these dishes," I objected. Out of the corner of my eye I could see the glow dying out of Mr. Pierce's face but Miss Patty took my arm and led me to the door.

"Let them gather up their own dishes," she said. "Dolly, you ought to be ashamed to let Minnie slave for you the way she does. Good night, everybody."

I did my best to leave them alone on the way back, but Miss Patty stuck close to my heels. It was snowing, and the going was slow. For the first five minutes she only spoke once.

"And so Miss Summers and Dicky Carter are old friends!"

"It appears so," Mr. Pierce said. "She's rather magnanimous, under the circumstances," Miss Patty remarked demurely.

"Under what circumstances?" I heard her laugh a little, behind me. "Never mind," she said. "You needn't tell me anything you don't care to. But what a stew you must all have been in!"

There was a minute's silence behind me, and then Mr. Pierce laughed too. "Stew!" he said. "For the last few days I've been either paralyzed with fright or electrified into wild bursts of mendacity. And I'm not naturally a liar."

"Really!" she retorted. "What an actor you are!"

They laughed together at that, and I gained a little on them. At the corner where the path skirted the deer park and turned toward the house I lost them altogether and I bounded on alone. But I had not gone twenty feet when I stopped suddenly. About fifty yards ahead a lantern was coming toward me through the snow, and I could hear a man's voice, breathless and gasping.

"BULLET JOE" BUSH BEATS THE GIANTS; "BIG JEFF" OUSTED

Athletics Take Fondly to Offerings of the Ozark Bear and Win.

EDDIE COLLINS IS THE STAR

Mac's Cub Pitcher Makes Two Starts in World's Series and Hanks McGraw's Men Helpless; Philadelphia Now Has One-Game Edge in Race.

"Bullet Joe" Bush had all the better of the "Ozark Bear," Jeff Tereau, in the game at New York yesterday and the Athletics won, 5 to 2. Eddie Collins shared honors with the cub twister Mac picked to bring home the bacon. The Athletics' captain is the star of the series so far, his hitting and fielding acrobatics with brilliancy.

The "wrecking crew" got in its good work and chased Tereau to the bench in the seventh inning. Doc Crandall took up the hopeless task of finishing the game. He allowed only one hit—a homer by Schuch, also a type in the big games.

Interest continues keen here and another big crowd got the returns on Main street. The service was the best yet. Operators S. Y. Waterhouse and S. M. DeHuff, alternating at the key, are proving themselves the best men on the Western Union's baseball circuit. Athletic fans are much in the minority around the South House.

MUCH SICKNESS AMONG KIDS OF THE SCOTTSVILLE VICINITY

Well at the White School is Blamed by Some for the Prevalence of Cases.

SCOTTSVILLE, Oct. 9.—Typhoid fever, scarlet fever and diphtheria are getting a start in this vicinity and several deaths have occurred, within the last few weeks, the superb health record of the community having been thus broken.

Charles Jordan, aged 8 years, five months and 17 days, died from diphtheria at the home of his mother, Mrs. Louisa Jordan in Brownstown, on Monday and was buried in the Scottsville cemetery on Tuesday. Like all funerals from such cases it was an entirely private one.

Oswar Lloyd Keefe, aged two years, son of Daniel and Marie Bangard Keefe died at the home of his parents in Kingsview Wednesday, from diphtheria and will be privately buried today at Mount Salem cemetery.

Paul, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson, of West Pittsburgh street extension, was taken ill with typhoid fever on Sunday. Naomi Ritchie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ritchie of near White school house, is very ill with the fever, having suffered a relapse.

There are some that blame the water in the well at the White school house with these infections.

In town John Harper, aged 9 years, who came home from Connellsville on August 2, has a developed case of typhoid fever.

Those children are reported to have scarlet fever: Catherine Elger, Edward Dorley and Margaret Syman.

"SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR CONSTIPATED CHILD.

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" Cures Worms, Tender Little Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without straining.

When cross, irritable, fussy or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother. If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the food, constipated matter, your bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you will have a well, playful child again.

When the little system is clogged with cold, throat sore, has stomachache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given.

Million of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here and abroad. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."—Adv.

VARIETY AT ARCADE
Ventriloquist Charles Off Hours; a Comedy Horse.

Manager "Dad" Hall offers a four-act bill for his patrons at the Arcade the latter half of this week. Howard Martine, a ventriloquist of extraordinary ability, carried off the honors with his rapid fire talk with a dummy. As a climax to his act he carried the dummy through the audience, singing, and all the while smoking a "cigar."

Wray and Wray presented a novelty act in the shape of a mountain vaudeville show, in which little tiny figures were put through a series of amusing stunts.

Cliff Marlon and company got a lot of fun out of a trick horse and topped it off with a funny line of talk and several songs.

Hague and Herbert, who opened the show, had some good comedy chatter and both proved themselves clever singers and dancers.

Three photoplays rounded out the bill.

Wright-Metzler's Store Closes Daily at 5.30; Saturdays at 10 P. M.

"Good Picking"

In taking up the story again of dishonest merchandising methods as practiced in some Connellsville stores, there are certain facts told of here that may shed light on incidents you have noticed and were unable to classify.

These wily storekeepers have systemized their tactics to an extent that would be commendable if the operations were to the customer's interest.

Salesman is showing merchandise to a patron, and, as often the case, one thing in the assortment stands out prominently. If the price is marked above the amount the patron can spend, the salesman takes his cue and endeavors to dispose of it anyway.

Finding the "job" beyond his powers of salesmanship the signal is passed to one with a little more authority. All business, comes the man higher up. "Why, John, didn't you know there's a discount on that article today? How much had the lady planned to spend on it?" John, smile, tells of the progress he has made, hands the customer over, and waits for the next arrival.

Mr. Higginman, wise in the tricks of his store, gets a little more for the article than John could have pulled down. The customer made her deal under the marked price; the store did better than it expected to when the double-price was tacked up, and all would have gone well if Madam Customer hadn't seen, sometime later, the identical "exclusive" thing in her bargain hunting neighbor's possession—and at less than Madam paid.

We are not writing these articles for the moral they touch, but to discourage juggling of prices in tricky stores as possible will be no necessity to point out a moral.

If ALL stores dealt cleanly with their trade, people would know what to pay for things—and they'd pay fair prices without haggle.

Whatever a store's stock or goods—modest in size or stupendous; character merchandise or merely ordinary—the right price it sets and adheres to, will steady business at all times. In a few words as possible we wish to say to our patrons that the prices of this store may be
